ONLINE SAFETY

Please find attached a factsheet for parents to raise awareness of online safety. As parents, it's important to be present and understand what your children are accessing online – by having an open conversation with each other, children are more likely to let you know if something doesn't feel quite right before it escalates further.

We know it's hard to stay on top of your children's internet safety, however, this resource can help with ways to safeguard your child when they are online.

Kind Regards,

Clare Lamb
